In the consulting industry, we are known for our collegiate and unique corporate culture.

Our professionals differentiate from the crowd: the people we employ have a real passion for the work we do.

Our ideal candidate totally masters English, has a solid economic or management engineering background, outstanding analytical and problem solving skills and is a clear and natural communicator whether in person or on paper.

In return we offer a challenging career and the possibility to work with some of the top names in industry.

If you wish to apply spontaneously for future events or positions, please visit the careers section in our website: www.adlittle.it
