

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN FINANCE AND BANKING

Meeting the Practitioners

a.y. 2016/2017

Emanuela Atripaldi, Ph.D.

Advisor at Bank of Italy

March 7, 2017 from 11 am to 12 pm
Classroom S11 (2° Floor – Building A)

Bank of Italy is the central bank of the Republic of Italy. It is a public-law institution regulated by national and European legislation. It is an integral part of the Eurosystem, which is made up of the national central banks of the euro area and the European Central Bank.

Emanuela Atripaldi is an Advisor at Bank of Italy. Graduated in Economics at Sapienza University, she earned a Master in Quantitative Methods and completed her academic background by becoming Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Rome Tor Vergata.