

Daniela Irrera is professor of Political Science and International Relations at the School of Advanced Defence Studies, CASD, Rome.

She is designated Chair of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR), co-editor of the Springer book series on Non-State Actors in International Relations, together with Marianna Charountaki, co-editor (together with Hana Kubatova) of the Blog Series on Constraints to Academic Freedom, as part of the ECPR blog TheLoop.

In addition she teaches Political Violence and Terrorism at the OSCE Academy, Bishkek, and Sustainability and Civil Society, as part of the MA course of Human Rights and Sustainability, Global Campus of Human Rights, Central Asia.

She is a member of the Management Committee of the COST CA21133 – Globalization, Illicit Trade, Sustainability and Security (GLITSS) and also leads the Working Group 2: Platform: the governance of illicit trade.

She has been Visiting Scholar at several Universities and Research Centres in Europe, US and Asia. She has been Fulbright Scholar at the University of Delaware, US; DAAD Fellow at the Peace Research Institute Frankfurt; Visiting Professor at the European Union Center of Excellence, University of Alberta, Canada. She has been Associate Faculty at IBEI, Barcelona, teaching within the MUNDUSMAPP Erasmus Mundus program, Marie Curie Fellow at the Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina, Florianopolis, Brazil, and Open Program Fellow at University of Loughborough, UK.

She has extensively published in the areas of International Relations and EU politics, dealing with global terrorism, transnational organised crime, civil society and humanitarian affairs.