

Ms. Lamia El Moubayed is a development specialist with a long experience in institutional development, policy planning, and management of development cooperation. Her experience spans senior positions in Government, international development, and the private sector. She was appointed by the United Nations Secretary General to serve on the UN Committee of Experts on Public Administration \(CEPA\), and was elected Vice Chair.

Ms. Moubayed currently leads a center of excellence in governance and public financial management in Lebanon with a regional portfolio (The Institute of Finance Basil Fuleihan). She is as a non-resident global fellow at the Asfari Institute for Civil Society and Citizenship at the American University of Beirut. She taught “governance and gender” at the American University of Beirut and “public management in the Arab world” at Saint Joseph University.

A fervent supporter of South-South cooperation, Ms. Moubayed contributed to creating six institutes of public Finance and to the foundation of two knowledge networks in the Middle East and Africa region. She publishes regularly. During a sabbatical leave in 2021, she published her first novel: “Laila, or the Meaning of Being Out of Place.”

Fluent in four languages, Ms. Moubayed holds a master’s degree in development economics, and certifications in Strategic Management, Policy Planning and Leadership. She was awarded the prestigious French distinction of “Chevalier de la Légion d’Honneur” (2015) for her work in development cooperation.