

Luca Beltrametti is full professor of Economics at the Department of Economics, University of Genoa. He got an MA in Economics at Colombia University and a PhD in economics at Pavia University.

He participates the "Osservatorio automotive" set by Federmeccanica together with the main trade unions. He has been consultant for Confindustria on issues related to the digitalization of manufacturing and currently is consultant for Federmeccanica on AI, digitalization of manufacturing and automotive.

He acted for two terms as Director of the Department of Economics, University of Genoa and currently is Dean of the School of Social Sciences, University of Genoa.