

Third World Maoism Alexander C. Cook

Presenter: Melano Khozrevanidze

1. Information about Mao Zedong

2. Maoism

3. Main argument

4. My opinion

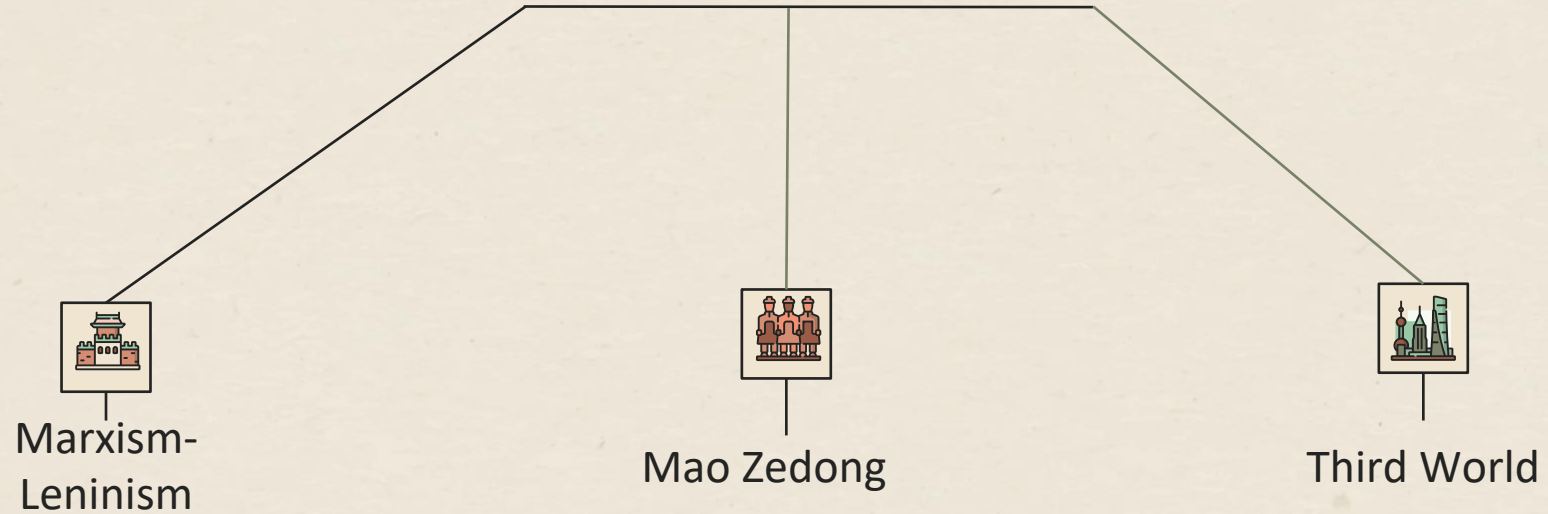

Political leader and most important figures in modern history.

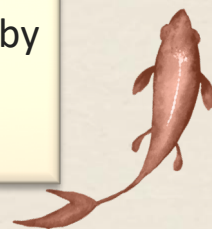

Maoism

Maoism or also known Mao Zedong Thought is a variant of Marxism-Leninism created by Mao Zedong to implement the socialist revolution in the agricultural society of the Republic of China

The author's main arguments

The author's main arguments are expressed in the fact that his goal is to explain and show us the common characteristics of what we can generally call "Third World Maoism". Maoism as a movement spread to Nepal, Peru, Kampuchea but had great influence was on India.

Mao Zedong's articulation of his Theory of Three Worlds served as a Cold War alternative to U.S. imperialism and Soviet revisionism during China's Cultural Revolution (1966-1976). The Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution was an attempt to shape China's future. His method was to change the nature of the Chinese people.

Bibliography

❑ Third World Maoism Alexander C. Cook 23 August, 2010

Thank You For Your Attention

