Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to offer a collection of theoretical, review, and empirical (qualitative or quantitative) papers covering the new frontiers of women's entrepreneurship. Topics of interest include (but are not limited to) the following:

- COVID-19: The COVID-19 crisis has tremendously impacted entrepreneurship worldwide.
- Sustainable business solutions: due to the economic, social, and political changes we have witnessed in the last months, sustainable entrepreneurship seems to be the key for the restart.
- The role of context: how a single country's specificities—i.e., normative, cultural, political, cultural, cognitive, and social—affect women's decision to start and grow a business, as well as their firms' survival and success.
- The intertwinement among innovation, gender, and entrepreneurship: at present, the vast majority of women-owned firms are still largely established in low-added-value and low-technology-based sectors. Therefore, research on innovation in women-owned firms still lags behind.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

I encourage you to contribute a research or comprehensive review article for consideration for publication in Sustainability, an international Open Access journal which provides an advanced forum for research findings in areas related to sustainability and sustainable development. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews, conference proceedings (peer-reviewed full articles) and communications. I am confident you will find the journal contributes to enhancing understanding of sustainability and fostering initiatives and applications of sustainability-based measures and activities.
