- 34. The Bachelor of Arts in Global Governance offers interdisciplinary teaching, which aims to prepare professionals to face global challenges that require specific legal and economic competencies, as well as a wide range of technical knowledge and skills to manage cultural mediations. With regard to the issues that your sector faces, can they be addressed by relying only on a single field of knowledge or do they require the melding of several specialties?

Interdisciplinarity today is crucial. Having at least two angles of observations on the reality gives an edge. What is important however is to have good competences on both

- 35. One of the main goals of the B.A. in Global Governance is to support the academic education of our students with a professional training so as to enhance their work opportunities once they graduate. For this reason, Global Governance encourages training programs and internships within institutions, firms and organizations, both in Italy and abroad, selected on the basis of their prestige and quality of the experience. Do you think that these activities are important for the introduction of our students into the world of work and, more generally, as a means of tackling youth unemployment?

They are crucial because part of the competences, skills and abilities can be learnt only at work. As well internships make students aware of the importance of soft skills for employers and create a stimulus for them to invest in that direction

- 36. Global Governance is implementing the so-called "Mentors Project". The main purpose of the project is to support students orienting in studies and choices about their future and to guide them in their career choices by putting them in touch (throughout the duration of the course) with a professional for advice and counsel. Do you think it is a worthwhile project to support?

It is great. Relationships and care are essential in human and professional life. There will be a great demand for that from students. What is more difficult is to create adequate supply

37. Do you think that the professional figures that the course intends to train (professionals in the following areas: International Relations, Business, Environment, Law, Political Sciences, Cooperation & Development, Economics, Global Flows, Security) meet the needs of your sector?

I'm University professor hence my sector is University. I however believe they are good professional figures

38. In order to help our students select an appropriate academic pathway to follow after they have completed the B.A. in Global Governance, the course offers three majors to choose from: Economics and Philosophy, Political Science, Law and History, and Science and Technology. Do you think it is advisable to offer majors, or in other words, specific subject areas that students specialize in, in a Bachelor Degree? Do you think that a major can better prepare students to enter a range of careers once they graduate?

I believe that after this preparation the students need to get more education with a Bachelor degree and with GG preparation they can apply in many directions. But a Bachelor degree is strongly needed

39. Do you think that the professional figures that the course intends to train will be in demand on the labour market over the next ten years?

Yes provided that they take one of the different disciplines they study as their major discipline and specialise more in it in the graduate courses

40. What are the competencies, skills and tasks of the professional figures required by your institution/University?

Does not apply. I'm from Tor Vergata

41. Do you think that the professional profiles that the course intends to train meet the needs of your institution/University?

Does not apply. I'm from Tor Vergata

42. How can we improve the training of our students so that their skills can better respond to the needs of your institution/University?

Does not apply. I'm from Tor Vergata
